MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR:

The City of Boston has long been interested in attracting businesses and industry to locate in our city. Our steadily improving business climate and economic outlook make our city viable for business expansion and business relocation. Our credit rating is good, our local economy sound, and our citizens ready and able to work, no matter how technical, diversified or demanding the needs.

The Economic Development and Industrial Corporation is the City agency that has worked long and hard to keep existing businesses in the City and encouraged others to settle here. This second edition of the Directory of Boston Employers is a continuing example of our commitment to assisting business and industry. The first edition proved very useful for identifying markets, researching labor pools and serving as an informational resource for the City, State and Federal government.

We hope you will find the EDIC's Directory of Boston Employers a valuable resource. The staff at EDIC will be happy to provide you with further information.

Sincerely,

Kevin H. White

Mayor

City of Boston

FOREWARD:

This is the Second Edition of the Economic Development Industrial Corporation's Directory of Boston Employers. It has been designed to assist persons buying or selling goods and services, as well as researchers and government agencies who may find this useful for planning purposes. The provision of information which helps facilitate increased production and trade is part of EDIC's on-going efforts to insure industrial employment for Boston residents.

Research reports and information on industrial development assistance programs are available at EDIC. Call (617) 725-3342 or come to 60 Congress Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Special thanks should be extended to Daniel Fishbein and Paul O'Reilly of the EDIC staff for their work on this directory.

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

Each of Boston's 16,000 employers have been categorized according to the nature of the services or products it provides. These groupings, called Standard Industrial Classifications (SIC), are used by the U.S. Census. The SIC codes used appear in the Table of Contents.

Each listing includes the name and address of a Boston employer. Firms which employ people in Boston, but whose payroll offices are not located in the city, are listed at the payroll office address. Under each address is a number range (such as 0-3, 10-19) which indicates the number of persons employed by that firm in Boston.

This directory can be used for two purposes: First, to help persons seeking a list of firms engaged in a particular industry and second, to help persons seeking the address and/or number of employees of a certain firm. Both are accomplished by consulting the Table of Contents. First identify the major economic section which corresponds to the type of firm which needs to be located. These are letter coded A through I. These groupings are broken down into 2 digit Standard Industrial Classifications (SIC) which in turn are broken down into 3 digit SIC categories. The specificity of lettered or numbered categories a reader refers to depends on the range of services or products offered by the businesses whose addresses are needed. The address of a particular firm can be most readily found by looking in the appropriate 3 digit category.

The addresses contained in this book are accurate as of March, 1979. A small number of businesses, generally employing no more than 3 people may not have been included in the base data.

The Directory of Boston Employers was compiled from computer printouts made available by the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security. Special thanks to the DES for their assistance in this endeavor.
